

STUDY IN GERMANY

Germany officially is the Federal Republic of Germany, situated in Western & Central Europe with 16 States. The capital & largest city is Berlin. It is bordered in the north by the North Sea, Denmark, and the Baltic Sea; to the east by Poland and the Czech Republic; to the south by Austria and Switzerland; and to the west by France, Luxembourg, Belgium, and the Netherlands.

The territory of Germany covers 357,021 km<sup>2</sup> and is influenced by a temperate seasonal climate. With over 82 million inhabitants, it has the largest population of any member state of the European Union and is home to the third-largest number of international migrants worldwide.

Germany is one of the most highly developed industrial nations in the world and, after the USA and Japan, has the world's third largest economy. With a population of 82.3 million Germany is also the largest and most important market in the European Union (EU).

Germany is a land of ideas. Education, science and research play a central role here. In a Europe free of borders and a world of globalized markets, education lays the basis enabling us to exploit the opportunities open borders and worldwide knowledge networks. Germany is one of the countries preferred by foreign students, a hub of cutting-edge international research and a constant source of new patents.

Why Study In Germany

International Exposure: Each year more than 25,000 international students choose Germany for study and research. They are attracted by international study programmes and excellent research opportunities. In addition, studying in Germany means being part of an international, highly qualified community.

Quality Education : The renowned tradition of German universities dates back to the 14th century and ensures an outstanding level of education and research.

Wide choice of programs : Studying in Germany no longer means studying in the German medium alone-over 300 international Degree Programmes offer courses which are entirely or partly taught in English. These courses are offered in various disciplines, especially in engineering, natural science, computer science, business and economics and lead to internationally recognised Bachelor or Master degrees or even to a PhD.

Economic Power : Germany is one of the world's largest economic players-and India's most important EU business partner, especially for machinery, automobiles, chemical and electrical products as well as IT. The economic co-operation between the two countries is increasing along with the presence of German companies in Asia. Products of German companies, especially machine tools, motor vehicles and electrical engineering products, are leaders in the international market.

Practical Experience: Studying in Germany often includes interaction with industry. Close ties with companies like SAP, Siemens, DPWN, Daimler-Chrysler, BMW or Bosch will increase your career prospects. Many institutions of higher education offer students the opportunity to do internships or carry out research in industry.

Low Tuition Fees : Universities are state-funded, therefore, generally low tuition fees are charged. You only have to bear your living expenses, such as accommodation, food, transport and health insurance. (Special student discounts for various services help to make studying in Germany less expensive tips.)

In the Heart of Europe: Germany lies in the heart of Europe-an excellent starting point to discover other famous European destinations. You can be in London, Paris or Rome in no time.

Education System

International degree programmes are designed to attract international students. They are well structured and based on working in small groups and include intensive guidance. The language of instruction is mainly English. The range of study opportunities cover Bachelor's, Master's and PhD level. One will find full range of about 650 international degree programmes offered in various disciplines, especially in engineering, natural sciences, computer sciences, business, economics, arts, commerce etc.
